High-speed internet link on Patna University campus soon

PATNA: The faculty members and scholars of Patna University (PU) will soon get the facility of high-speed internet connectivity on the campus. All the colleges, post-graduate departments and libraries will be linked with a network of high-speed internet. The information technology department of the Union government has already sanctioned a sum of Rs 8.15 crore to the university for the purpose. A six-member team of the implementing agency, ERNET India, led by its additional director Arnav Srivastava, visited PU early this week and discussed the plan in detail with the university officials led by vicechancellor G K Chaudhary. The team members also made an on-the-spot survey of the sites to be connected with the high-speed internet. Congratulations! A 26,000 metre-long optical fibre would be laid underground in and around the campus to provide internet connectivity. In the first phase, the institutions and wings to be connected with high-speed internet will include PU administrative office, central library, guest house, Patna Science College, Patna College, Vanijya Mahavidyalaya, Darbhanga House complex, and central dispensary. Besides, the vocational courses building, advanced research centre (under construction) and all the hostels located between Patna College and Patna Science College would also be linked. In the second phase, the institutions to be provided high-speed internet connectivity would include Patna Law College, B N College, Magadh Mahila College, and Women's Training College, Prasad said.

PU students' welfare dean Anil Kumar said though the campus has already got free wi-fi connectivity under the 'Saat Nischaya' scheme of the state government and about 800 people are utilizing it daily on an average on the campus, its connectivity is so slow that many a time scholars face immense hardship in downloading the desired information. Under the new project, the internet speed would be enhanced from the present 20 MBPS to as high as 10 GBPS. As a result, the scholars would be able to download even larger files of documents or videos in a second with the high-speed internet connectivity, he said. Kumar added that the installation work is likely to be started soon and the entire project would be completed by March, 2023.
